Key Data

The year-on-year rate of inflation accelerated from 5.2% in March 2014 to 5.9% in April. The heavy weighted items in the consumption basket -food, housing and transport-continue to underpin price increases, with alcohol and furniture price increases adding to the higher rate.

Under the Microscope

Food and non-alcoholic beverages (CPI basket weight: 16.4%): Food prices increased by 8.9% y/y from 8.6% y/y in March. The increase in the annual rate was due to higher prices in most of the subgroups, which was marginally offset by dairy products, fruit and coffee inflation cooling down. Meat inflation will continue to intensify in 2014 as the red meat prices recover during the year in response to lower sales volumes. Following abnormally high sales volumes in 2013 on account of the drought, extensive herd re-building is expected through 2014.

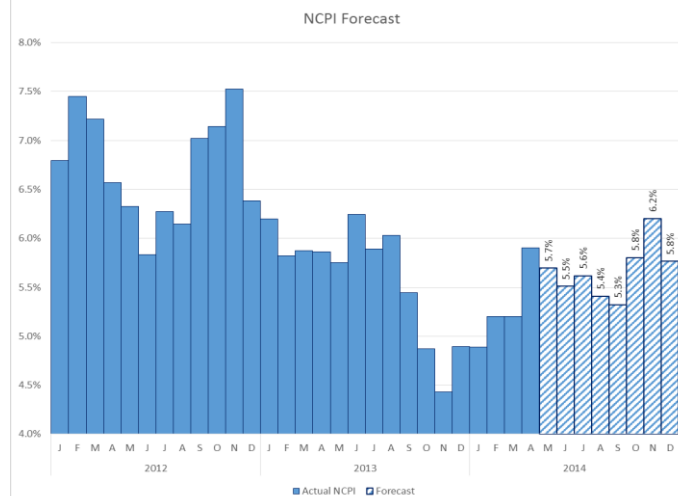

Housing and utilities (CPI basket weight: 28.4%): Housing and utilities inflation rose from 3.3% y/y in March to 3.5%. The increase in the annual rate was mainly on account of an increase in electricity and other fuel price inflation, accelerating from 8.9% year on year, to 10.3%. We expect the price of electricity to continue to rise as the ECB approved a tariff increase on large scale supply of power for 2014/15 of more than 13% after NamPower applied for an increase of 21.3%. The price increase will be effective as of 1 July 2014.

Transport (CPI basket weight: 14.3%): Transport price inflation was higher in April than in March, up from 7.4% y/y to 9.4%. The main factor affecting the increase was the public transport services inflation rate that spiked 10.4 percentage points to 10.8% in April, this is on account of the taxi fee increase effective 1 April. It is forecasted that transport price inflation will continue to increase in 2014, on account of increasing oil prices in ZAR, due to currency depreciation and uncertainty surrounding Ukraine.

Outlook

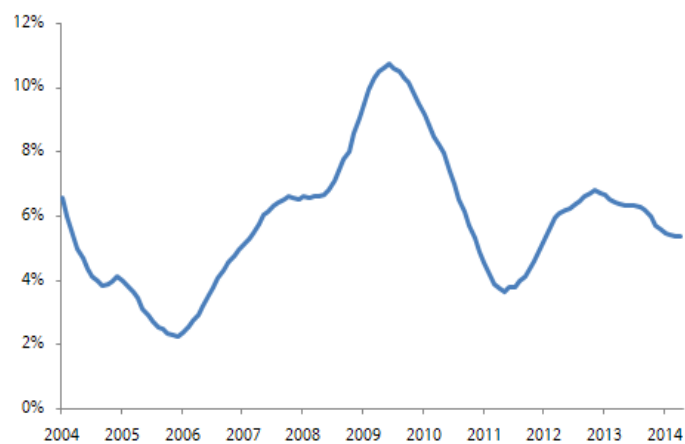

The 12-month average inflation remained 5.4% in April, down 0.2 percentage points from the average level of 2013. In the IJG Outlook for 2014, we forecast average inflation for the year of 5.6%. However, on account of relatively low inflation over the first quarter of 2014, we have revised down these forecasts for the remainder of the year, and are now forecasting price increases of 5.5% for the year, despite the expectation of an exchange-rate-inflation pass-through. Going forward, our monthly forecasts have remained largely unchanged for the year, despite the spike seen in April.
