International Market Wrap

Global stocks extended their advance as easing bets on a Federal Reserve interest-rate hike this month lifted sentiment. The dollar steadied after sliding to a four-month low, while the yen pared some of its two-day surge. MSCI's Asia Pacific equities gauge climbed 0.8%, sending the All Country World Index — the broadest measure of global stocks — higher for a third day. The gains followed a rally on Wall Street spurred by Fed Governor Christopher Waller's comments that he would support keeping rates steady if price pressures continued to ease. Treasuries and gold held their gains from the New York session. A Bloomberg gauge of the dollar was little changed after falling to its lowest since May. An index of Asian currencies climbed to levels last seen in October 2024.

SA Economic News

South Africa's Kganyago sees room for caution on rate moves. South Africa's central bank chief Lesetja Kganyago said policymakers can afford to respond cautiously to the aftereffects of inflation shocks such as higher oil prices caused by the Iran war and a looming drought. "We are dealing with, for lack of a better word, what I would call a polyshock, and that means that the decisions that we take are, not that they were ever easy, but they have just become even more difficult," Kganyago said on News24's Bruce Whitfield's Business Week podcast Thursday. "The manner in which we respond to the aftereffects of the shock can continue to be measured." The six-member monetary policy committee will next decide on rates on 23 September as the Middle East conflict rages on, driving up energy and fertilizer prices and the El Niño weather pattern threatens to curb rainfall impacting food costs. Food accounts for almost 17% of the consumer price index.
