Elevate Uranium boosts Marenica resource by 31% as stake in project rises to 90%. Elevate Uranium has increased the mineral resource at its Marenica Uranium Project by 31% to 52.8 million pounds (Mlb) of U_3O_8 as the company moves to expand its ownership of the Namibian asset to 90%. The resource upgrade follows infill drilling programmes aimed at converting inferred resources into the higher-confidence indicated category. Drilling is expected to continue until early August 2026. The announcement comes after Elevate Uranium signed two agreements on 13 July to acquire an additional 15% stake in Marenica Minerals, the owner of the Marenica Uranium Project, increasing its shareholding from 75% to 90%, subject to completion. The transaction will also simplify the project's ownership structure, leaving one remaining Namibian partner. The company also reported progress in refining its proprietary Upgrade™ pilot plant in Namibia, with results expected in August. However, it cautioned that commissioning remains subject to ongoing supply chain and customs-related delays. – Mining & Energy

Anglo cashes in on copper as strategy shift starts to pay off. Anglo American Plc saw a steep jump in earnings, driven by the copper mines that it's put at the centre of its new strategy. Anglo is approaching the finishing stages of a radical transformation of its business. As part of a plan to fend off an approach from BHP Group in 2024, the company unveiled a restructuring that included exiting diamonds, coal and platinum. Since then, it has struck its own deal to buy Teck Resources to create one of the world's biggest copper miners. – Moneyweb

Woolworths flags slower H2 growth as consumers rein in spending. JSE-listed retail giant Woolworths Holdings Ltd reported a sharp deceleration in second-half trading momentum for the 52 weeks ended 28 June 2026, as geopolitical conflicts and renewed central bank monetary tightening eroded consumer discretionary spending across South Africa and Australia. In a trading update released on 30 July, the group confirmed that total turnover and concession sales grew 4.3% (4.8% in constant currency) over the full financial year. However, top-line growth dropped to 3.3% in the second half as a particularly weak fourth quarter offset a solid first-half performance. – Moneyweb

Cape Town CBD's R12.8bn boom: Investors pour in, residents priced out. Cape Town's central business district is attracting property investment at a pace unmatched anywhere else in South Africa, with a 41% surge in developments to R12.8 billion in a single year. Tower cranes dot the skyline, billion-rand mixed-use projects are reshaping the city centre and office developers are scrambling to meet demand for premium space. But the State of Cape Town Central City Report 2025, the latest, suggests the CBD's success comes with a growing trade-off: soaring residential prices, a shortage of affordable housing and fears that the city centre could become increasingly inaccessible to ordinary Capetonians.
